

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. By forty Years Success in Trade, and with an unquestionable Reputation, he had acquired an Estate of upwards of 300,000*l.* but in the Year 1720, having the Misfortune of being a Director of the South-Sea Company, he was involved in the common Calamity with those unhappy Gentlemen: Although his Innocence was sufficiently evident, inasmuch as it did appear, that far from being a Gainer by that fatal Project, he had considerably lessened his Estate by it.—<sup>4</sup> Lieutenant-Governor of the Isle of Wight.—<sup>5</sup> Died; a new Writ ordered, March 24, 1725.—<sup>6</sup> Colonel in the third Regiment of Guards, made Lieutenant-Governor of the Isle of Wight; and a new Writ being ordered, Jan. 25, 1731, he was re-elected, and died; a new Writ ordered, May 9, 1733.—<sup>7</sup> Made his Election for the County; a new Writ ordered, Feb. 17, 1737, upon the Petition against him being withdrawn.—<sup>8</sup> Died; a new Writ ordered, Jan. 15, 1736.—<sup>9</sup> Cashier of the Pay-Office.—<sup>10</sup> Colonel of a Regiment of Foot.—<sup>11</sup> Died, a new Writ ordered, Nov. 30, 1744.—<sup>12</sup> Colonel of a Regiment of Foot, called the Young Buffs.

LIST

OF ALL THE

COUNTIES, CITIES, AND BOROUGHES,

DISPOSED IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER,

Shewing the Time they first began to send Members, the Rights of Election, as decided by the House, and an Account of all the controverted Elections, with the several Determinations concerning them.

THE Commons were first summoned to Parliament 49 Hen. III. when Simon Mountfort, Earl of Leicester, having the King and Prince in his power, issued writs in the King's name for calling a Parliament, in which Knights of the Shire were directed to be chosen. This Parliament had the denomination of 'Mountfort's Parliament;' but after his defeat, the King being his own master, called another Parliament the same year, consisting only of the Barons.

Edward I. proceeded in the same manner till the 18th of his reign, when he issued summonses to several Sheriffs, to summon two Knights of the Shire. On the 8th of October, the 22d of the same reign, a writ was issued to the Sheriff of each county, to elect two Knights of the Shire. On the very next day, he issued another writ, for electing two more Knights for each county, besides those before-mentioned, so that each county was represented by four Knights.

In the Parliaments of the 18th and 22d of this King, the Lords and Commons met together to hear the causes of calling the the Parliament, and when these were declared, they separated to consider and debate. The Commons were then only the Knights of the Shire, but in the year following, viz. the 3d of October, 23d Edward I. the writs were for electing two Knights for each Shire, two Citizens for each City, and two Burgesses for each Borough. The writ of the 49th Hen. III. is only ad tract. & consul. to treat and consult, but those of King Edward are ad consul. & consentiend. to consult and consent; which last word is very material, it giving the legislative power; therefore the Parliament of King Edward I. may be said to be really the first, that of King Henry III. being a measure of the King's Minister, or rather Governor, and which the King shewed his dislike to, by returning to the former method of summoning the Barons only. King Edward III. in the 23d of his reign, also first summoned the Convocation, because (as the writ says) That which concerns all, should be approved by all.

The Counties were ascertained, but the Sheriffs had it left to their discretion to summon what Cities and Boroughs they thought fit, in which they took great liberties, by summoning in a partial and arbitrary manner; it being then reckoned a burden to the People, the electeds being then paid by the Electors; nor had the Representatives at that time any advantage, more than their wages. In the 2d of Richard II. a law was made to hinder these arbitrary proceedings, but it proved ineffectual; so that several Boroughs were exempted by charter from the Crown, others were left out by the Sheriff, many of which have been restored since the Reformation.

The Knights of the Shire were at first elected by the Commonalty of the County, which Lord Coke explains to be the Freeholders in general, and these, by the statute of Henry VI. are restrained to Freeholders of 40s. per annum. The original method of Election for Cities and Boroughs, was either in the Commonalty at large, or restrained to particular Bodies of Men within the same, who contributed to the charge. And it is supposed, where the Boroughs were of the King's demesnes, the King's Tenants, or such as paid him any acknowledgement, were the Electors; and where a District was made a Borough, generally the Inhabitants at large were liable to the charge, and in them was vested the power of Election. In Boroughs incorporate, the Body corporate only were liable, and had only the right of Election: And where it was in the Community at large, and the poorer sort joined not in the payment of the expences, those only who paid paid became a select body, and had voice in the Election of Representatives; from whence arose the Right of Election by Inhabitants paying Scot and Lot: And from the alienation of the King's demesnes, the Owners or Possessors of those tenements retain the Right, which is what we call now Burgage-Tenure, their Predecessors being the original Burgesses. As to Boroughs which elect by Inhabitants at large, it is supposed they were such as contributed to wages, as long as wages were paid; and though they do not now pay, they found their claim upon the payment of their ancestors.

The restored Boroughs had no Right of Election settled upon their restoration, and therefore seem to be left to their ancient Rights. But it must be observed, that in all determinations the proved Usage has been looked upon to be the Right. Several Boroughs have privilege of Representation in Parliament granted them by charter since the Reformation, and upon the words of the charter the Right of Election depends.

Petitions and contests concerning Elections began in the time of King Edward III. and were originally to the King (after in the King) in Parliament, because all points of Election were anciently returnable there. But in the 7th of Henry IV. a statute was made that they should be returned into Chancery; wherefore, upon the common maxim of the execution of writs being to be examined by the power from whence they issued, the Great Seal assumed a jurisdiction in these matters: but in the 29th of Elizabeth, in the case of the Norfolk Election, and others in that reign, the Great Seal submitted to the claim of the Commons.

As the House of Peers, without consulting the Commons, have always determined the Rights of Peerage, the Commons, for the same reason, took upon them to judge of their Elections; and in their representation to King James I. set forth, That, though they were but a Part of a Body as to make new Laws, yet, for any Matter of the Privileges of their House, they were, and ever have been, a Court, of themselves, of sufficient Power to discern and determine without their Lordships, as their Lordships have always used to do for theirs without them.

The methods of proceedings on controverted Elections have been various, but the final determination always by the whole House. In Committees, it has been usual to examine the matter, state the evidence, and lay it before the House for their determination. Other Elections have been, and still are, heard at the Bar,

Bar, and determined by the whole House. The witnesses are not sworn, but if they give false or prevaricating evidence, they are punished by imprisonment. By a statute of the 2d of the late King, it is enacted, That the last determination of the House be final.

NORFOLK County, 22d Edw. I.

1586 Nov. 3, Mr Speaker shewed to the House, that he had received Commandment by the Lord Chancellor from her Majesty, to signify to them, that her Highness was sorry this House was troubled, the last sitting thereof, with the Matter touching the chusing and returning of the Knights of this County; a Thing in Truth impertinent for this House to deal withal, and only belonging to the Lord Chancellor.

Nov. 9, Mr Thomas Cromwell reported from the Committee, that Mr Thomas Farmer and Mr Gresham were returned Sept. 26; Mr Christopher Heydon and Mr Gresham, Oct. 24; after the Beginning of the Parliament.

That the former Return was deemed good. That one of the Committee had moved to send to the Lord Chancellor to know what he had done in the Matter, which the rest of the Committee thought not convenient; for that they thought it prejudicial to the Privileges of the House, to have the same determined by others than such as were Members thereof; and though they thought very reverently of the Lord Chancellor and Judges, yet in this Case they took them not for Judges in Parliament in this House. Whereupon Mr Farmer and Mr Gresham were allowed to take the Oaths, as allowed by the Censure of the House, and not as allowed by the Lord Chancellor and Judges.

1626 Sir Edward Coke, Sheriff of Buckinghamshire, being elected for this County, hopeth the House will do him that Right, as to send out a new Writ. He continued to sit.

1695 Sir Geo. Meggot, kt. Petit. against { Anthony Bowyer, esq.
Charles Cox, esq.

It appeared by the Testimony of John Lade and Thomas Malyn, esqrs. that upon their telling the Petitioner how much the others out-poled him, he replied, he did not value it if he lost it there, for he had Friends enough to carry it in the House of Commons, and said he would lay 500l. he would be in the House.

Dec. 21, Resolved, That the Petition of Sir George Meggot is vexatious, frivolous, and groundless. Resolved, That Sir George Meggot, having scandalized this House, in declaring, that without being duly chosen, he had Friends enough in the House to take him into the House, be taken into Custody of the Serjeant at Arms.

1696 Nov. 3. STAFFORD County, 28th Edw. I.

1584 Edward Leigh, esq. being since his Election chosen Sheriff of the County, it was ordered that he have Liberty to absent himself in and about his necessary Charge and Service of the said Office of Sheriffwick; from whence it appears, that neither her Majesty nor the House of Commons did conceive these two Places to be incompatible; for doubtless, if the House had thought him incapable, they would have ordered a new Writ. Besides, if her Majesty might have disabled any Members from serving in the House, by appointing them Sheriffs, it would be in the Power of any King or Queen to disfurnish the House of many of the ablest Members.— See LINCOLNSHIRE and RUTLAND.
